Section A: Reading

Question	Answer	Marks
1	What type of text is this? Tick (✓) one box. Award 1 mark for: discussion text.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
Look at the first paragraph (lines 1–6).
2(a)	Give one reason the Cincinnati underground network was never completed. Award 1 mark for one of the following ideas: - The money had run / ran out. - The government refused to help.	1
2(b)	Give one word that tells the reader the underground remains unused. Award 1 mark for: abandoned.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
3	Look at the first sentence in the second paragraph (lines 7–12). The word Though links two ideas. What is the link? Award 1 mark for: Cincinnati is an example of a wider pattern/trend around the world.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
4	Look at the third paragraph (lines 13–16). The writer uses two dashes (–). Give one reason why the writer does this. Award 1 mark for either of the following: - to contrast (between use of stations and sewers and other tunnels) - to provide additional/extra information. Do not accept: rhetorical punctuation. This answer is not specific to the use of dashes in this text.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
5	Look at lines 19–20. Explain why the writer uses the phrase blood flow. Award 2 marks for both parts of any of the following ideas: - The writer likens working public transport systems to the workings of a human body. - Just as blood flows through the body (to keep it alive), people flow through the underground systems. - Without blood flow the body will die; without commuters, the city will die. Award 1 mark for responses that only include one part of these ideas. E.g. 'because blood is in the body'.	2

Question	Answer	Marks
Look at the fifth and sixth paragraphs (lines 21–23 and 24–26).
6(a)	Give one example of how abandoned stations are used as pop-up meeting places. Award 1 mark for one of the following ideas: • a location for parties (during the film festival) • a short-term exhibition space (for Brooklyn street artists).	1
6(b)	Look at lines 24–25. The writer uses the phrase not just as. What does this tell the reader about the writer's opinion? Award 1 mark for: The writer: • thinks pop-up hangouts are a bad idea / not a good use of the space • prefers one use of abandoned stations over another • shows his opinion of temporary uses of abandoned stations • thinks that permanent uses would be better than temporary uses.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
7	In the seventh paragraph (lines 27–29), Tom Moran says abandoned stations are like time capsules. Give one piece of evidence from a different part of the text that shows this idea. Award 1 mark for: • these stations are a link to their cities' past • powerful reminders of forgotten history • they contain all the features of a public space / they contain ornate signage and advertising on the walls. Do not accept: 'And the best way to ruin a time capsule is to open it'.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
8	Why is the last sentence in a separate paragraph? Award 1 mark for: - It is to separate Tom Moran's quote from the author's point of view. - To emphasise it / the sentence or to draw a contrast with what has gone before	1

Question	Answer	Marks
9	How do you think abandoned stations are like ghosts? Give two reasons and support each reason with a quotation from the text. Award 1 mark for a relevant reason. Award 1 mark for an appropriate quotation that supports the reason. Award up to 4 marks. Accept part of a quotation as long as the original meaning is conveyed. <table><tr><th>Reason</th><th>Quotation</th></tr><tr><td>Stations are invisible/hidden like ghosts. OR, 'Lurking' suggests the hidden presence of ghosts.</td><td>'unaware that lurking on the other side of the walls'</td></tr><tr><td>Ghosts haunt deserted places. OR, 'Remains' suggests something left over from the past and ghosts persist.</td><td>'the remains of deserted stations'</td></tr><tr><td>Ghosts are silent / they are reminders of the past / come back from the past.</td><td>'Known as 'ghost stations', they are silent but powerful reminders of forgotten history.'</td></tr><tr><td>'Eerie' suggests something scary/spooky like ghosts. Ghosts do not have a human element, they are supernatural.</td><td>'It's that missing human element that makes them more eerie.'</td></tr><tr><td>Ghosts haunt places. / If the commuters stop using the stations the stations will die and 'haunt the city.'</td><td>'the stations will eventually haunt the city'</td></tr><tr><td>Ghosts are temporary like temporary ghost stations.</td><td>'Many ghost stations are being used for temporary purposes.'</td></tr></table>	Reason	Quotation	Stations are invisible/hidden like ghosts. OR, 'Lurking' suggests the hidden presence of ghosts.	'unaware that lurking on the other side of the walls'	Ghosts haunt deserted places. OR, 'Remains' suggests something left over from the past and ghosts persist.	'the remains of deserted stations'	Ghosts are silent / they are reminders of the past / come back from the past. Question	Answer	Marks
10	Where is Text B taken from? Tick (✓) one box. Award 1 mark for: • travel magazine	1

Question	Answer	Marks
11	Look at the first sentence (line 1). The writer has omitted the words ‘Have you’ from the beginning of the sentence. Give one reason for this. Award 1 mark for: • (The writer has used ellipsis) to create an informal tone. • (The writer uses an informal tone) to sound more friendly.	1

Question	Answer	Marks
12	Look at the second paragraph (lines 4–10). The writer uses a subordinate clause to begin the sentence. Give one reason for this. Award 1 mark for: (The writer puts the subordinate clause first to:) • withhold the name of the website / to withhold the website owner’s / Mark Smith’s name / to withhold the identity of the man in seat sixty-one. • build up a picture of the website owner before his name is revealed. • introduce the idea (that he is mysterious) in order to dismiss it (in the second clause / part of the sentence).	1

Question	Answer	Marks
13	Look at the last sentence. Explain why the writer ends the text with this phrase. Award 1 mark each, up to a maximum of 2 marks: ‘All aboard’ has several meanings: • to get on the train • to hurry up which is said before departure as a warning before the train leaves • implies the reader should quickly go to the website / buy the book • to accept the idea of using trains rather than flying.	2

Question	Answer	Marks
14(a)	Your friend wants to travel. Complete the list of advantages of travelling by train, using ideas and information from Text B. List up to six other points. Award 3 marks for 5–6 correct points. Award 2 marks for 3–4 correct points. Award 1 mark for 2 correct points. Award 0 marks for 0–1 correct points. Travelling by train: • means you can see more scenery • reduces carbon footprint • is comfortable • is less stressful than flying • is less frustrating than flying • is more responsible than flying • is more exciting • means you can see more of the world • becomes more of a journey / is a more rewarding way of travelling / is more adventurous.	3
14(b)	Summarise the advantages of train travel. Include 4–5 of your points from the list. Write up to 50 words. Use your own words as much as possible. Award up to 2 marks for a coherent summary that includes 4–5 points. For example: • Travelling by train is affordable, comfortable and efficient. You can get to see more of the world, and it will be more of a journey. As well as being more relaxing than flying, it is more responsible because it reduces your carbon footprint. Award 1 mark for a summary that includes some but not all of the main points. Award 0 marks for a summary made up of facts which are not synthesized. Do not award more than 1 mark where the summary exceeds 50 words. Accept words lifted from the text where they contribute to a cohesive summary.	2

Section B: WritingNotes to markers

- Use the marking grids on the following pages.
- Marking should always begin from the lowest mark in each column and work upward.
- A 'best fit' judgement should be made in judging first in which box to place the response and then, within that box, which mark is appropriate.
- The lower mark within a box should be given if some the criteria have been met but not all.
- Note on extent:
Award 0 marks where the performance fails to meet the lowest criteria.
Award 0 marks for 20 words or fewer.
Award a maximum of 7 marks for responses of between 21 and 60 words.
You need not count the words unless you think there will be fewer than 60. In normal-sized handwriting 60 words will be approximately 8 lines.

15 There is an old, empty building in your town which is about to be demolished. Write an article for your local newspaper to convince readers that the building should be kept.

You should consider:

- What is the building?
- Why should it be kept?
- How should the building be used?
- Who will use the building?

The writer's attitude to the subject is well established and conveyed in a consistent style throughout which effectively sustains the reader's interest. Features and conventions of the relevant text type, when appropriate, are successfully manipulated for effect throughout. Structural, linguistic and literary features are used in combination to create specific effects. A logical viewpoint is established and sustained throughout. If relevant, multiple viewpoints are expressed clearly.		The response is well-organised using a wide range of organisational features accurately and effectively. Ideas are developed with chronological or logical links throughout the text from an effective introduction to a successful conclusion. Paragraphs are used successfully to structure the content. There is effective cohesion within and between paragraphs. An effective range of carefully chosen sentence openings and connectives are used appropriately to support content.	Grammar is used accurately throughout the text. For example, there is: - a wide range of sentence types manipulated and/or adapted for effect. - grammatical features are used effectively to contribute to the overall development of the text. - Consistent use of formal and/or informal register to enhance and emphasise meaning according to context, purpose and audience. Punctuation is accurate: - Use of a wide range of punctuation for effect. - Conventions of layout are always applied effectively and consistently e.g., bullet points.

Creation of texts (Wc)	Vocabulary and language (Wv)	Structure of texts (Ws)	Grammar and punctuation (Wg)	Word structure (Ww) (spelling)
The writer's attitude to the subject is conveyed in a generally appropriate and consistent style, which mostly sustains the reader's interest. Main features and conventions of the text type are occasionally manipulated for effect. Some combinations of structural, linguistic and literary features to create a specific effect. A viewpoint is expressed clearly and sustained throughout. .	Material is wholly relevant using a specialised vocabulary mostly accurately for the purpose / text type. Conscious language choices are made, which shape the intended purpose and effect on the reader.	The overall response is presented clearly and is well-organised using a range of organisational features successfully. Ideas are developed with chronological or logical links throughout the text with a successful opening and closing. Paragraphs are used to help structure the text where the main idea is usually supported by following sentences. A range of sentence openings and connectives are used appropriately to support content.	Grammar is mostly accurate throughout the text. e.g., • Use a range of sentence types, manipulated and/or adapted for effect. • Use grammatical features to contribute to the overall development of the text. • Formal and/or informal register is generally used appropriately according to context, purpose and audience. Punctuation is mostly accurate: • Use a range of punctuation for effect. • Conventions of layout are applied consistently e.g., bullet points.	Spelling is usually correct throughout. (There may occasional be phonetically plausible attempts at complex words.) Correct spelling of most, not all, polysyllabic words, e.g., appear, information, probably, separate wondering/wandering, business, essentially, accommodation.

Creation of texts (Wc)	Vocabulary and language (Wv)	Structure of texts (Ws)	Grammar and punctuation (Wg)	Word structure (Ww) (spelling)
Content is suitable for the intended audience. Viewpoints are well-presented and consistent throughout. Uses relevant features consistently for a chosen purpose to clarify meaning. Content may use different characters and voices within the text when relevant. May begin to add structural and literary features in parts of the text.	Material is mostly relevant using a specialised vocabulary accurately for the purpose / text type. Mostly conscious language choices are made, which shape the intended purpose and effect on the reader.	The response is generally well-organised and attempts the use of some organisational features. Some attempt to sequence relevant ideas logically. Paragraphs / sections are evident, though not always consistently or appropriately, with related points grouped together or linked by time sequencers. Movement between paragraphs or sections, may be disjointed with a limited range of sentence openings and connectives.	Grammatical structures are generally accurate throughout the text, e.g., • Use of some range of sentence types to support the text type. • Some complex sentences may be attempted to create effect, such as using expanded verb phrases. • Some awareness of formal and/or informal register according to context, purpose and audience. Some range of punctuation: • commas, semi-colons, dashes and hyphens are used accurately to clarify meaning. • There may be evidence of comma splicing. Note: if punctuation is totally lacking and other descriptors met then give the lower mark here.	Spelling of common and some less-common words, including polysyllabic and compound words, is generally accurate, e.g., friend, another, around, because, anything, something. Spelling of plurals and some past and present words is generally accurate, e.g., boxes, clothes, told, stopped, wanted.

Creation of texts (Wc)	Vocabulary and language (Wv)	Structure of texts (Ws)	Grammar and punctuation (Wg)	Word structure (Ww) (spelling)
Some material included that is relevant to the task. The writer's attitude to the subject inconsistently conveyed, with some attempt to engage the reader. Some elements of the text type can be seen; a maximum of 1 mark can be awarded if not the correct text type.	Some language choices are made, which shape the intended purpose and effect on the reader. Creates some effect by using a range of linguistic and literary techniques.	Some attempt to organise the overall text. Some basic sequencing of ideas in relation to the stimulus. Paragraphs / sections are evident with related points grouped together or linked by time sequence. Movement between paragraphs or sections, is disjointed with a very limited range of sentence openings and connectives.	Basic grammatical structures are generally correct, e.g., • subject and verb generally agree. Past and present tense of verbs generally consistent. • A mix of simple and some compound sentences used accurately. Some complex sentences may be attempted to expand detail but not always successfully. • Formal and/or informal register may be attempted but not consistently according to context, purpose and audience. Punctuation: • Demarcation of straightforward sentences is usually correct. • Commas are used in lists and occasionally to mark clauses. Note: learners should gain marks for good English with punctuation errors rather than lose marks for essentially good English.	Spelling of high frequency words is generally correct, e.g., their/there, when, were, what, some, etc.
